

Recovery Retreats

South Australia
July – December 2023

What are Recovery Retreats?

Take a break from your everyday, build new skills and meet new people.

Mind Australia's Recovery Retreats are an opportunity for NDIS participants to enjoy short, supported holidays across South Australia.

You will have your own cabin or hotel room with an ensuite bathroom as a base for enjoying relaxation, meals, on-site activities, and outings with others. Mind staff will support you during the trip. You can help in planning the meals, activities, and outings program.

Recovery Retreats enable people experiencing mental health challenges to experience time away from home in a safe, supported and flexible environment.

Key Information

- Referrals close 2 weeks prior to retreat departure.
- You will have an individual pre-trip meeting to discuss your meal and activity preferences and complete your service agreement.
- Recovery Retreats range from approximately $3,200 - $8,000, and final cost is based upon the duration and staffing ratio of your retreat. This should all be funded from your NDIS Plan. This is subject to change in conjunction with NDIS Price Guide updates.
- Cost includes: pre-trip planning appointment, staff support, accommodation, transport, meals and activities.
- Retreat accommodation, activities and themes as listed may be subject to change.

Where do we stay?

Recovery Retreats are held at a variety of picturesque locations across South Australia, including the Barossa Valley, Victor Harbour, Mannum, Wallaroo, Mount Gambier, Kangaroo Island and more. Retreat participants each stay in private accommodation, usually a cabin, motel or hotel room, which includes a private ensuite, small lounge space and tea and coffee making facilities. Please speak with staff regarding any individual preferences for where you'd like to travel to and stay.
