

Media release

2 April 2019

Mind welcomes NDIS price increases

Mind welcomes the announcement of NDIS price increases by the Australian Government.

Increased prices for therapy, attendant care and community participation will take effect under the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) effective 1 July 2019.

People with funding for the relevant services will have their plans automatically adjusted to reflect the new prices.

This is good news as this means no consumers will have their purchasing power reduced because of the price increases.

“This is a good step forward for the NDIS and we thank the NDIA for their commitment to addressing pricing issues,” Mind’s Chief Executive Officer Robyn Hunter said.

For details of the price increase, see the Australian Government media release

For further information contact Mind Communications Manager Max McLean at max.mclean@mindaustralia.org.au